FAILURE OF MICHIGAN TREASURER INVOLVING STATE SHOCKS NATION

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 8.—The state of Michigan was astounded last week to find that one of its millionaires bankers and its treasurer of the commonwealth had financially failed. It is announced that State Treasurer Frank P. Glazier of Chelsea, president of the famous Chelsea State bank, the Chelsea Savings bank and other institutions, has failed. His liabilities are placed at $1,000,000. It is said that creditors will probably realize about 25 cents on the dollar. In order to prevent a run on the bank the state bank commissioner announced that the institution of which Glazier has apparently violated the law in borrowing on his personal credit and that of his concern $249,000, whereas he could borrow lawfully but $28,000 from that institution, the capital and surplus of which is but $100,000. Another serious feature is the fact that the state of Michigan has $684,000 of the state's treasury fund on deposit in the Chelsea bank, but the attorney general says that the commonwealth is protected by the state treasurer's bond and the bank's bond. Mr. Glazier himself is ill in bed.

Glazier's career has been a spectacular one. He has grown wealthy through the growth of his stove works and his kindred alliances, a business which started from a small shop and now employs 1,000 men, nearly half the population of Chelsea. As his wealth has grown Glazier has dipped into politics. He has been twice elected state treasurer and was considered a possibility for governor.

UNIFORM SCHEDULE OF FREIGHT RATES

Will Be Object of Efforts of Committee of Fifteen Representing Every Railroad in Country.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Washington, D. C., Dec. 8.—A subcommittee of the uniform classification commission, organized by the railroads of the United States for the purpose of arranging a universal freight tariff to apply to all the railroads of the country, met here today to determine upon the time and to arrange other details in connection with the meeting of the commission. It is expected that the sessions of the commission will begin soon after the first of the year and that they will be held either in New York or Chicago.

The time that it will take the commission to perform its work is problematical. The sessions of the commission may extend over a period of three years, and longer if necessary. If satisfactory progress is not made within that period the commission will be dissolved. The commission of fifteen members represents every railroad in the country and it will endeavor to arrange a uniform schedule. There are at present three classifications used by the railroads of the different territories. These are the official, the southern and the western. Each differs from the other and is a source of much annoyance to shippers and railroads alike.

In addition to transacting routine business the annual meeting of the association will discuss a number of questions of interest to the trade.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Trenton, N. J., Dec. 8.—New Jersey this week joins the list of states that have substituted death by electricity for hanging. FATE OF GERMAN MINISTRY NOW RESTS WITH REICHSTAG Chancellor Von Buelow.

Berlin, Dec. 8.—Following the announcement of the crisis in the Reichstag by Imperial Chancellor Buelow yesterday the body held a stormy session yesterday. The crisis has been far more important and significant than appears on the surface. It is the first time in the history of the empire that a chancellor has appealed to the majority in the Reichstag for support as a condition of his continuance in office. Consequently the action taken by Prince von Buelow yesterday introduces a revolutionary change into German governmental methods. His appeal means nothing less than the responsibility of ministry to the Reichstag. When the house assembled nearly every seat on the floor was occupied, and the public galleries were crowded. With the exception of Prince von Buelow, the imperial chancellor, all the members of the cabinet were present.

SECRETARY TAFT'S MOTHER IS TAKEN BY DEATH SUNDAY

MRS. LOUISA MARIA TAFT

Mrs. Louisa Maria Taft, mother of the secretary of war, died at 12:20 a. m. yesterday at Milbury, Mass. Her son sailed from Cuxhaven for New York at noon Saturday.

Mrs. Taft was the widow of Alphonso Taft, secretary of war and attorney-general under President Grant, and later minister to Austria and Russia. Mrs. Taft was attacked last July with acute indigestion, and a gradual breakdown followed. Secretary Taft visited his mother twice, once in July and again in August. Then the duties of his office called him to Washington, where plans for a tour of the world had been so definitely arranged that they could not be changed, and as his mother was reported rallying, he proceeded to carry out his program.

In addition, reports will be made on the work of the public ownership commissions, the conciliation and immigration departments; on the investigation of the conditions surrounding the employees of the government at Panama under the welfare department; and from the industrial economics department on the results of the recent conference on combinations and trusts held under its auspices in Chicago, and on the organization of the joint labor committee, formed by the delegates from the National Manufacturers' association, the American Federation of Labor, the General Federation of Women's Clubs and the National Civic Federation, and its proposed plan of work.

Mayor "Jim" Dahman.

William Jennings Bryan has already anticipated the Omaha banquet, which is scheduled for Dec. 10, as an announcement for his presidential boom. He has already expressed his willingness to accept a nomination if tendered to him by his party. This makes less important but, not less interesting, the banquet which Omaha's cowboy mayor has planned for the night of Dec. 7, when it had been originally expected Bryan would launch his 1908 boom. Mayor Dahman is one of the most picturesque public officials in America. He rode into office on his bronco and continues to be the fabulist cowboy "Jim." This banquet, which is intended for the evening of December 10 in Omaha, was originally scheduled for an earlier date in Lincoln, Neb., but was postponed with the expectation that all of those who were to be on hand in Lincoln will be on hand in Omaha with many not to his antecedents.

Painter for Households.

When you have married your wife, you would think you were got upon a hilltop, and might begin to go downward by an easy slope. But you have only ended courting to begin marriage. Falling in love and winning love are often difficult tasks to overbearing and rebellious spirits; but to keep in love is a business of some importance, to which both man and wife must bring kindness and goodwill. The true love story commences at the altar, where there lies before the married pair a most beautiful contract of wisdom and generally, and a lifelong struggle toward an unattainable ideal. Unattainable? Ay, surely unattainable, from the very fact that they are two instead of one.—H. L.
Stevenson.

Doctor's Rich Fee from American.

A French nerve doctor was called to treat an American visitor for acute neuralgia. Electricity was applied with excellent results. The patient, gratified, promised to send the doctor a check. The next day the doctor was astonished to receive a check for $1,000. He went and asked if a mistake had not been made and received further expressions of gratitude. A few days later the American sent the doctor a check for $1,000,000 francs.
The doctor was astonished to receive the check, and he just moved into the house given him.

DESERVING CAUSE
NEEDING SUPPORT

Associated Charities Care For Many Cases of Truly Needy Ones.

For many years past the Associated Charities have cared for many needy families and helped them tide over periods of hardship and want. The members have given their time and labor free. They reach many cases which neither the city or county charity know about. People who are too proud to apply for aid from these sources and thus become county charges are helped in times of need and the work done by this loyal band saves much suffering. Many such cases are coming to the notice of the officers at the present time. Each case is investigated by some member of the committee appointed for this work and the giving of charity and help has been reduced to a science and the members accomplish much more with the meagre sums they have at their disposal than if the giving was haphazard. Tickets are to be distributed all over the city with different merchants and the association will be glad to receive contributions no matter how small. Every cent received and expended will be accounted for. If any one desires to contribute to the worthy cause it will be gratefully received and if not reached by the collector hand it to some member of the committee. Cards also will be handed out so that should needy persons apply for aid they can be sent to a member of the committee who will investigate the case and at them. It is a good cause and at this Christmas time should not be forgotten.

NEW MILK TEST OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

State University Professor Finds New Method of Great Value in Cheese Making.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 8.—A simple method of determining the amount of casein in milk, which bears the same relation to the cheese industry as the butter making, has been devised and perfected by Professor E. B. Hart of the department of agricultural chemistry of the University of Wisconsin. In a bulletin now in press entitled "A Simple Test for Casein in Milk and its Relation to the Dairy Industry," Prof. Hart sets forth in detail the results of his experiments, and gives practical directions for the application of the new test. The method is so simple that it may be used in any cheese factory with accuracy by anyone exercising reasonable care. Without it has been possible to determine the exact content of milk only by a long, tedious chemical process not adapted to general use.

Need of Test.

As cheese is made up almost wholly of fat, casein, and water, the fat and casein, under uniform conditions of cheese making, determine the yield of cheese. It has been clearly shown that in cheese making the amount of casein and fat in the milk should be known to both the man who owns the cow and the man who buys the milk.
The practical man, as well as the investigator, recognizes the fact that milk varies in the relative proportion of casein and fat. As there has been no simple casein test, cheese makers have been compelled to rely upon the fat test to determine the value of milk for their purposes. As milk has been found to vary in casein from 16 to 25 pounds for every 100 pounds of fat, it is evident that the fat test is insufficient in determining casein content. Thus the new casein test to supplement the fat test, and of the greatest importance to cheese making. Such a simple test it is that Professor Hart has devised.

How the Milk is Tested.

In order to make the test, a definite quantity of milk is put into a tube containing a solution of chloroform and acetic acid, and is thoroughly mixed with these chemicals by shaking.
The purpose of shaking is to bring the chloroform into contact with the fat globules of the milk and thereby to dissolve them. The tube is then placed in a centrifuge, similar to that used in the Babcock test, and revolves at a speed of 2,000 revolutions per minute for eight minutes. The centrifugal force distributes the ingredients in the tube so that the chloroform with the fat in solution is in the bottom, and the clear water solution of the milk solids on top. The casein forms a sharply defined white mass between the

was badly damaged and ran

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, Dec. 9, 1867.— Life—The streets have been full of teams today, giving an old time look to them.

Shut Down Nights.—By mutual agreement the millers stop running at nine o'clock evening and commence at five in the morning. This arrangement enables them to work to better advantage in the day time, as there is an accumulation of water during the night.

Hurrying It Up.—The work on the new Congregational Church is pushed with exceeding vigor just now. No cold or frost is allowed to interfere.
Large stoves run night and day and the necessary calorific is thus obtained to enable workmen to put on plastering and to dry it after it is put on.
Such energy ought to insure an early completion of the work.

Secretary Seward emphatically declines that he has had any negotiations with Spain for the purchase of the Island of Cuba. He says that he has always favored any scheme that would secure it to the United States, but that Spain will not part with it unless forced to do so.

Two or three important meetings have been held lately at Debuque, Iowa, to consider the new, and apparently practicable movement to ship grain to the eastern seaboard, by way of the Mississippi River and New Orleans, where a grain elevator, both stationary and floating, has been established, with a view to this expected trade. It is said that grain can be sent by this route to New York for 30 cents per bushel.

The value of the Mississippi River, as a means of transportation to the state that border on it has never been fully appreciated by the people of the west. If this Debuque movement is successful in getting grain through to New York cheaper than by rail, it will furnish an additional reason for the improvement of Rock river, and no doubt stimulate the people of Wisconsin and Illinois to vigorous action in regard to one of the grandest internal improvements of modern times.

Before The Footlights

MADAME BERTHA KALICH, AT MYERS THEATRE, TUESDAY DEC 10.
Miss Hortense Nielsen, who comes to the Myers Theatre on Thursday, Dec. 12, with her own company in Illinois, is quite a sensation. "A Doll's House," scored an artistic triumph recently at the Hindebaker Music hall in Chicago.

Practically unknown even to the critics of the great Chicago theatres, unhindered by the usual flourish that precedes the appearance of a star, Miss Nielsen quietly made her appearance in the small but elegant Music hall and by force of great intellectual powers and artistic finesse won the unstinted praise of the press and cultured public.

Miss Nielsen's acting belongs to the intense, suppressed, artistic school.
Her portrayal of "Nora" the misanthropic, unhappy girl-wife was marvelously clear. In its insight into the depths of feelings that stir the hour of the capricious heroine of the great Norwegian dramatist.

Miss Nielsen is supported by an excellent cast of New York players and the entire performance bears the mel-ropolitan stamp of a first class production.

Bertha Kalich, who comes to the Myers Theatre Tuesday, Dec. 10, under the direction of Harrison Gray Pike, in "Martin of the Lowlands," is one of the few, the very few actresses, whom the dramatic critics of the large cities have been unanimous in declaring was one of the most remarkable actresses of her period. An actress whom the English speaking world will yet acknowledge to be without a peer. In "Martin of the Lowlands," Madame Kalich has, in the powerful emotional role of Martin, a part which gives her the greatest opportunity of her successful career. It is a role that Martin Guerrero, the Austin Strong's Play Sailed to Both Old and Young, but It Is In Part Poorly Constructed—Chauncey Olcott Again an Irish Hero.

[From Our New York Dramatic Correspondent.]

"The Toymaker of Nuremberg" is one of the latest plays by a native American author. It opened at the Garfield Theater. Austin Strong, the author, also wrote "The Little Father of the Wilderness," a charming one act drama, in which Francis Wilson successfully appeared a year or two ago.

"The Toymaker of Nuremberg" tells a story that is suitable for young folks

W. J. FERGUSON.

as well as grownups, but the author has not shown any appreciable amount of ability as a playwright. His work in this new vehicle, especially toward the latter part, smacks of the amateur.

W. J. Ferguson is seen in the leading role. Even his excellent and well-known powers as a comedian cannot save the play.

Other members of the cast are Constantino Bailey, Frank Wanderlee, Leo Herbert White and William Dechert.

The toymaker of Nuremberg is an expert and work loving artisan of the old village. His son loves the daughter of his employer, and of course the cruel rich man says that he will not allow such an unequal match to take place. To make matters worse, the employer says that he does not want any more dolls, the toymaker's specialty, but wants Teddy bears, which have made such a success in America that the market for dolls has been absolutely killed. Of course the old toymaker rebels and says he will never accept this latter humiliation.

And in the end there is of course the fairy book ending—when the eldest son, who has been missing for years, comes back from America and says that it was he who did all the damage.

He is, in fact, the Teddy bear king.

And instead of having to go to America to earn his fortune the toymaker of Nuremberg is rich and happy, and his son is enabled to marry the daughter of the cruel employer.

Chauncey Olcott, he of the buckskin breeches and captivating ways, has begun his annual New York engagement at the Liberty Theater, presenting Theodore Durr's new romantic drama "O'Neill of Derry." Mr. Olcott is to be seen as Bryan O'Neill, an Irish cavalier.

The scene of the play is laid in the old town of Londonderry toward the close of the seventeenth century. The story is romantic and a moving panorama of intrigue, heroism, passion and love. Mr. Graham Croft, the English governor of Londonderry, is a brutal and has separated Laurence, Desmond from his sweetheart, compelling him to flee to France and the woman to become Lady Croft.

Later Desmond returns in disguise and seeks a meeting with Lady Croft.
The chief of police plots to capture Desmond and issues a proclamation declaring death, the punishment for fighting a duel. He endeavors to arrange a duel between Desmond and one Hugh Farrell. Bryan O'Neill, a light hearted soldier of fortune, comes upon the scene and provokes Farrell to a combat with swords, in which he wounds Farrell.

Now Bryan O'Neill baffles the soldiers and police, outwits Sir Graham Croft and marries the heroine, Kate Fitzroy, in four stirring acts.

VENERABLE RULER OF SWEDEN IS DEAD

OSCAR II. DIES AND THE WHOLE COUNTRY IS MOURNING.

GUSTAVE V. NOW IS KING

Grief of the People Testifies to Their Love for the Aged Monarch—Sketch of His Career.

Stockholm, Dec. 9.—Oscar II., king of Sweden, died at 9:10 o'clock Sunday morning. The death of the venerable monarch occurred in the royal apartment of the palace, where, surrounded by the members of his family, including the aged queen Sophia and the crown prince, Oscar Gustave, and high ministers of state, the inevitable end had been awaited, while outside the palace great crowds stood with bowed heads and tearful eyes long after the announcement came of the death of their well-loved sovereign.

The whole country is bowed with grief, for King Oscar was something more than a ruler of his people and had endeared himself to them as an intimate and personal friend. When the flag on the palace was dipped to half mast there was a moan of anguish from the assembled multitude and many of them cried "our dear old king is dead."

Gustave V. New King.

The succession to the throne of Sweden now passes to Oscar Gustave Adolph, duke of Vermland, the oldest son of the late king. At a meeting of the council of state, Sunday afternoon, the new king took the oath of allegiance under the title of Gustave V., and adopted the motto "With the People for the Fatherland." The prince then took the oath of allegiance and the new monarch accepted the homage of the state officials.

The last hours of the expiring monarch were passed in unconsciousness and up to the end he gave no sign of recognizing those about him. The queen was grief-stricken because he could not bid her farewell. At 5:15 Sunday morning the gentlemen of the king's court were aroused and ordered to appear at once in the bed chamber.

The premises and foreign minister and the highest court officials, together with all the members of the king's family, assembled there and remained at his side until the end came.

Grief of the Young and Poor.

In the palace courtyard in the dim cold gray mist of the morning stood a crowd of school boys, King Oscar's most devoted family. Here they had stood for hours, blue and shivering, watching the palace flagstaff. There, also, gathered many old men and women, such as the king had always stopped to comfort with mild words and generous aims when he met them in the parks or streets, their faces tear-stained because their beloved king and benefactor was dying. Suddenly the flag dropped to half mast and a wall of misery and sorrow arose. The old folks clasped their hands and prayed and wept aloud and the schoolboys' lamentations were pitiful to hear.

In the death chamber knelt the heart-broken queen and gathered about her were her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, praying for strength to bear their great affliction. The church bells began to toll and the minute guns boomed. All Sweden mourned its great loss.

Gustave Takes the Oath.

At one o'clock in the afternoon King Gustave V. took the oath of office before the cabinet and court assembled in the grand gallery. The oath was administered by Minister Lindman.
Then the princes of the blood swore allegiance to the king, who embraced and kissed them, giving his favorite brother, the giant Carl, a hearty slap on the back.

This ceremony being concluded, the cabinet resigned, but the king begged the ministers to remain at their posts and assist him as they had so ably assisted his father. They acceded to his request and took the oath of office.

Sketch of Oscar's Life.
Oscar was born January 21, 1829.
He was the third son of King Oscar I., and of Queen Josephine, daughter of Prince Eugene of Leuchtenberg, and a grandson of Marshal Bernadotte. He succeeded to the throne at the death of his brother, King Carl XV., September 18, 1872. He was married June 9, 1857, to Queen Sophia, daughter of the late Duke William of Nassau.
Four children survive him—Gustave, now king, born June 16, 1859; Prince Oscar Bernadotte, born November 15, 1859; Prince Carl, born February 27, 1891, and Prince Eugene, born August 1, 1895. Gustave was married September 20, 1881, to Princess Victoria of Baden-Daden. Their oldest son, Prince Gustave, was married June 15, 1906, to Princess Margaret Victoria of Connaught. Prince Oscar renounced his succession to the throne and married March 15, 1888, Isbba Munk, of Fulda.

Wah Able and Democratic.

King Oscar was called the ablest ruler of the nineteenth century and the most democratic king that ever lived. He never made any attempt to conceal the humble origin of his family and whenever he traveled to the south of France he made it a point to visit the little house at Pau where his grandfather was born. A tablet over the door of the little one-story house bears this inscription: "The pious, Charles Bernadotte, who subsequently rose to be field marshal of France and ultimately King Charles XIV. of Sweden and Norway, was born in this cottage in 1752." In appearance, however, King Oscar was every inch a king and there is no sovereign in all Europe who was more stately and more regal in bearing than was he. In height King Oscar stood six feet two inches—taller than most of his subjects who, as a rule, are tall men. His eyes were blue in color, distinctive of his race, and were commanding but kindly.

Scholar and Life Saver.

The late king was distinguished in philosophy, having received degrees from so many universities of Europe that he may fairly be called, so far as degrees indicate, the most learned man in Europe. He was an author, a translator, a learned man in political economy and the science of government, a musician, an historian and a playwright. All the great master pieces of literature, historical, philosophical and religious, he translated into Swedish. One of his novels, the one which has become the most widely known of his works of fiction, deals with the rise of his own family of Bernadotte and the accession to the throne of Sweden of his grandfather.

With all his accomplishments as a scholar, King Oscar was a brave man and wore upon his breast on state occasions a medal bestowed on him by the French government as a reward for two heroic deeds performed when he was a young man.

What the New King Has Done.

Gustave, the new ruler of Sweden, was born in the castle of Drutningholm. Immediately after his birth he was made duke of Vermland. He pursued his studies from 1877 to 1878 at Uppsala. In 1879 he traveled abroad, visiting almost all the countries of Europe. In 1889 he returned a second time to the university at Uppsala.

He entered the army in 1875 and in 1892 he was given the rank of general lieutenant. In 1896 he served as inspector of the military schools and in 1898 he was made a full general. Between the years 1884 and 1891 Gustave filled the office of vice king of Norway. As a result of Gustave's persistent and strenuous efforts to hold the Swedish-Norwegian union together, he earned the enmity of the ruthless majority in the Norwegian storting and in retaliation the storthing took away from him a yearly appanage amounting to $12,500.

Sensible German Practice.

In Germany, if a doctor is wanted suddenly in the night, instead of flying around in a cab or rushing wildly from house to house, one goes to the nearest emergency station, and fetches one of the several doctors who are always on night duty in their turn.

Health in European Cities.

Antwerp and Amsterdam lead En-rope as the most healthful municipalities. Madrid is at the other end of the list.

OCEAN MAIL SERVICE

The United States government has not given sufficient attention to the provision of adequate mail service by ocean routes to various parts of the world with which its citizens have business relations.

With those portions of the world with which the country has as yet a small amount of business, but which it is desirable to increase, there is urgent need of better facilities.

Yet correspondence is the standard form by which business relations are maintained, without which it is useless to talk about finding and holding markets.

AN EMERGENCY CIRCULATION. While President Roosevelt might easily have said more in regard to financial legislation, what he did say was excellent.

PANICLESS PROSPERITY WANTED. Luther Burbank, the wizard of plant breeding, has succeeded in producing a thornless cactus.

adequate securities issued under a heavy tax so that the notes would be retired as soon as the emergency which called them forth had passed.

Undoubtedly it would be to the advantage of the country if we had a comprehensive change in our money system. We have too many kinds of money.

CLEVELAND'S OPINION. Thirteen states were represented at the great insurance meeting held in New York the 5th, 6th, and 7th of December.

Grover Cleveland acting as chairman called the meeting to order at 2 o'clock. In his opening address he said that in all conflicts arising from a moral awakening there appears the noblest of virtues who strive for the good in the noise and clamor of the fight.

Mr. Cleveland said that some of the legislation proposed had been defeated by informing the public mind, and that some of it which passed is chargeable to nothing more than prejudice, indifference or careless ignorance of the conditions with which it deals.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES. The government pays the expenses of elections, and provides the entire machinery for voting. In many states it also defrays the expense of holding the primary elections of the different parties.

Perhaps Weston did not know what he started when he began his walk from Portland, Maine, to Chicago, and then perhaps he did. Anyway his influence is felt in Janesville.

EDITOR IS GUILTY OF CRIMINAL LIBEL

Manitowish Jury Does Not Take Long to Decide Suit Brought Against C. M. Wright.

Manitowish, Wis., Dec. 8.—Within less than a half hour after the case was given into its hands, a municipal court jury Saturday night returned a verdict holding C. M. Wright of Milwaukee, editor of the Tribune of this city, guilty of criminal libel. Wright was arrested on complaint of William Rahr, Sr., president of the County Industrial association, whose management of the county fair last year the Tribune had attacked, charging that Rahr, by borrowing money to improve the property, had placed the association in danger of bankruptcy and was seeking to crowd small stockholders from the society.

Mistaken Diagnosis. Kicker—"His father thought him a young muttonhead." Hooker—"But he proved the beefiest man on the team."

Chesterfield Superlativity. Chesterfield's idea of excellence was essentially superficial, for his praise of solid achievement and genuine principle is always coupled with the assertion of their entire inability if unequipped by grace, external polish and an agreeable manifestation. He omits all consideration of their intrinsic worth and absolute dignity. Their value to the individual, according to him, is wholly proportioned to his skill in using them in a social form.

In one of his earlier letters to Philip Stanhope he writes: "What an advantage has a graceful speaker with good tool motions, a handsome figure, over one who shall speak full as much good sense, but who is destitute of these ornaments! In business how prevalent are the graces, how detrimental is the want of them! If you should not acquire manners, all the rest will be of little use to you. By manners I mean engaging, interesting, shining manners, a distinguished politeness, an almost irresistible address, a superior gracefulness in all you say and do." He would have manners overlay individuality and goes so far as to declare that a soldier is a brute, a scholar a pedant and a philosopher a cynic without good breeding.—London Standard.

LOST SOUTH SEAS CONTINENT.

Australian Professor Seeks Solution of Ancient Mystery.

The lost continent of the South seas is a pet study of Dr. Woolnough of Sydney university. The main difficulty in the way of reconciling existing conditions with an original great area was that depths of 2,000 fathoms occurred between the islands. It was necessary to look for land evidence of faulting or breaking to account for the submarine depths. The granite area in VIII Levy was found to be from 400 to 600 square miles in extent, underlying the modern volcanic rocks. A range of granite mountains with precipitous cliffs on each side gave evidence of heavy faults creating chains of great depth. He found the rivers forming a marked rectangular network, an upraised coral reef 200 feet above the sea level, conglomerate rock showing sea shells at a height of 800 feet above the sea, and certain hills and tufts which had formerly been submarine and were now at a height of 4,500 feet. All these indicated a tremendous uplift sufficient to cause greater faulting in the original continent. The rivers of Fiji were of comparatively youthful development, and even at present passing through the canon cycle.

REPATTEE OF THE JUVENILES.

Washington Children in Smart Exchange of Compliments.

Evidently there was a severance of friendly relations between two of a group of small girls who a minute before had been romping about the award in Dupont Circle, for just as the writer approached the daughter of a southern legislator called out to her small companion from the west: "The girl with the red dress on is a cowgirl! The girl with the red dress on is a cowgirl!" Again and again the taunting challenge was hurled at the red-dressed western girl, who finally, with one supreme effort at self-control, retorted: "Oh, very well, then, the girl who is a cowgirl is a sheep! I'd sooner be a cowgirl than a sheep, 'cause the president is fond of cowboys and cowgirls, but not even a secretary likes a sheep!"

MISS MARY A. TIPNEY DIED THIS MORNING

Passed Away Quietly—A Lovable Christian Woman Gone to Her Last Reward.

Early this morning Miss Mary A. Tipney, aged 61 years, entered into rest after a few days of lingering illness. A woman of great physical endurance and singular sweetness of character, finding greatest joy in the cultivation of flowers and in generous giving of them to others, she seemed to realize that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Her love for flowers, their beauty, their delicacy of color and fragrance, lifted her thoughts from the realm of the material to the realm of the spiritual. She recognized God's providence and bounty to her and rarely failed to give expression to it and show it by her manner of life. She was much loved and appreciated by those who knew her in her home and in her church. The news of her death will prove a great shock to her many friends. She leaves one brother, John W. Tipney, a life-long companion, to mourn her loss. There will be prayers at the house on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock and the burial service at Trinity church at half after two.

James Beryan, Janesville, aged 77, died at the County Hospital last Sunday morning. The remains were brought to Ryan's undertaking rooms this morning. Mr. Beryan leaves two nieces and one nephew to mourn his death. Miss Mary C. Cunningham of Johnston, Miss Mary Beryan of Johnston, and James Beryan of Washington. The funeral will be held at St. Mary's church at nine o'clock Tuesday morning.

BELOIT GREEK PAID THE MINIMUM FINE

Of $50 and Costs for Selling Liquor Without a License—Man Who Cut Live Wire to Be Prosecuted. (Special to this paper.)

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 9.—Soterios Stamatis, a Greek, pleaded guilty in Judge Rosa's court, this morning, to the charge of selling liquor without a state or government license. It appeared from the evidence produced by District Attorney J. L. Fisher that the owner of the grocery was one Peter Chodorakis, who bought it of one Nicholas Bozhakakis and that the defendant was only the bartender. Atty. T. S. Nolan, representing the defendant, made a plea for clemency on the ground that Stamatis was only nineteen years old; had been in this country but eighteen months and was not familiar with the laws; and was only an employee at the establishment, the owner having fled to Chicago. Judge Rosa imposed the minimum penalty—a fine of $50 and costs amounting to $16.50.

Before he left the court-room Stamatis was re-arrested on another warrant sworn out by City Atty. H. W. Adams, charging him with selling liquor to a minor.

An action against a house-mover named Conco, charged with cutting without permission and allowing the ends to fall upon the thoroughfare, an electric wire carrying 2,300 volts, will be tried tomorrow.

After a vacation of several weeks, the circuit court jurors returned to the courthouse this afternoon to try the two cases remaining on the calendar—Kate Richter vs. the City of Janesville and Ames J. The plaintiff seeks heavy damages in compensation for injuries alleged to have been wrought to her premises near the Five Points at various times when alleged defective sewers have failed to carry away the water left there by heavy rainfalls.

CAREER OF TED COY.

Great Yale Fullback Has Always Been All Around Star.

THE BEST OF LINE HITTERS.

Entered Yale a Year Ago and Was Leader in Freshman Class Athletic Affairs—Has Ability as Baseball Player and Track Man.

Ted Coy has jumped into the place of Billy Knox as Yale's best all round athlete, and incidentally he is the best college fullback of the country, as shown by the play of the season just closed. Knox, who is now Yale's head football coach, was fullback, a broad jumper with intercollegiate honors and was a member of the varsity hockey and gymnastic teams. Coy is the new fullback, a first baseman and is a track athlete who has already won intercollegiate mention.

This is Coy's second year in college. He came from the Hotchkiss school, which was founded by his father, the late Professor Edward G. Coy, an educator whose memory is revered by hundreds of American youths, and on the school grounds at Lakeville, Conn. Coy was in evidence in all kinds of athletics. He was a sprinter who never failed to score at the school meets, and his form in tennis and golf was of front rank in the sports of that school, which are more or less informal.

Going to Yale a year ago, he set his stamp upon college athletics indelibly, although his activity was confined to the freshman class because of the new faculty reform rule which sweeps all first year students out of athletics. Coy was elected captain of the 1910 class football eleven and played fullback, practically all the season. The team had no trouble in defeating the Harvard and Princeton 1910 class players, going through the season without being scored upon. This only eleven which crossed the Yale 1910 goal line was the Yale varsity in daily practice, and the freshmen beat the varsity often than they were beaten by it. Coy's eleven went to Princeton to meet the 'Tigers' club after the faculty had taken a parting shot at the Yale 1910 players. Six of the best men in the eleven had been kept at home because of scholarship troubles, but Coy went into the line and played tackle, and Yale won, 14 to 0.

Last spring Coy played first base on the freshmen nine, and his work was so satisfactory that there is practically

THE COY, LEADING FULLBACK OF 1907, no doubt that he will be placed at first base on the Yale varsity for the remaining three years of his course. He can have his choice of the baseball or football captaincy in his senior year.

In the contest for honors as 'freshman strong man' Coy was declared the best developed man in the university by Dr. Born, the Yale medical examiner. Coy was the best track athlete at the Hotchkiss school, his total of points at the annual meet there exceeding that of any rival. He has done the 100 yards in eleven seconds, has covered twenty feet in the broad jump, has made five feet ten inches in the high jump and has made fast time in all the runs up to half a mile. He was too busy last year to train regularly for the freshman track team, and he made only one appearance in track athletics last season.

In the Yale-Princeton 1910 class meet at New Haven in May he was called over from the baseball field and put into the high jump. He won the second prize with a leap of five feet seven inches without any preparation whatever and jumping in his baseball uniform. After landing three points for Yale in the meet he trotted back to the baseball field and remained first base on the freshman nine.

Coy will have his hands full to play Yale baseball in the spring and football in the fall for the three years in which he will remain in the university, and his friends think that he will spend the winter quietly to store up a surplus of energy for the spring season.

He is the best distance punter Yale has had since Al Sharpe was graduated, his kicks travelling often sixty to sixty-five yards.

GOSSIP OF THE PRIZE RING.

Owen Moran, Britisher, a Coming Champion—Nelson-Gans Talk.

By THOMAS F. CLARK.
Abe Attell, the champion featherweight pugilist of this country, and Owen Moran, who holds the same title in England, have been matched to fight to a finish for the featherweight championship of the world. Jim Corroth, the western promoter, is arranging to hold the fight and will use his arena at Colma, Cal., for the great battle, which he expects to pull off on New Year's afternoon. Moran recently defeated

OWEN MORAN.
Franklin Noll of California in the sixteenth round of what was billed as a twenty round encounter. Moran gave Noll such a terrible beating that the latter's seconds threw up the sponge to save the Californian from being knocked out.

Moran has made good, and it is now up to the wizard of the ring, Abe Attell, to stop this British wonder. Attell has never fought a finish battle in his life. It will be a new thing for Abe, and he will probably change his tactics a bit when he meets Moran. Around the country there are few who concede Moran even a chance to draw with Attell, but many who witnessed his recent fight say there's a big surprise in store for wily Abe. Both are legitimate featherweights. If anything, Moran is the smaller of the pair. He has always fought small men, while Attell has beaten lightweights with the same ease in which he disposed of featherweights.

The little Englishman is a clever two handed boxer, quick on his feet and with tremendous hitting powers, considering his weight. In addition to this, he has had a great deal of ring experience, meeting many of the best men in England and America.

Attell is a marvel. He may be too strong for Moran, but he surely will have to have everything in stock the day they meet, for Moran is not anything like the majority of English fighters who have visited America. He is an Americanized Johnny Bull, with all the tricks of the trade up his sleeve.

Champion Joe Gans has again changed his mind and says he won't fight Attell. Nelson again. He says that he is done with fighting forever and adds that while he turned over the lightweight championship title to George Meade, he considers Paddy MacFarland of Chicago the legitimate champion.

Gans says he stands ready to bet $5,000 that MacFarland can whip Nelson, and has posted $500 to be forfeited if he does not make good his assertion, provided Nelson accepts the bet.

Speaking of his conference with the Dane in Minneapolis recently, the Baltimore scrapper said he was willing to meet Nelson, but would not give in to him on the weight question.

"I don't care about fighting any more," said the negro. "This fellow came after me, attempting to force me into a match. I can beat him, and he knows it, and while it would not give me any great pleasure to pound him again I was willing to accommodate him. I finally consented to a match, but when he got down to his old stipulation about weight I refused as a matter of principle. Now I will not agree to meet him on any terms."

"I think this fellow MacFarland is the best of the lightweights, and to back up my judgment I stand ready to bet Nelson $5,000 that Paddy can beat him."

"Yes, he turned out all right. His pipes of Pan turned out to be clay pipes of hardpan. Run a big factory and makes more money in a day than he could whackin' steers in a year."

FIFTY-THREE BODIES FOUND.

TOTAL DEAD IN MONONGAH MINES MAY NOT BE OVER 400.

Rescuing Parties Are Driven Away Temporarily by a New Outbreak of the Flames.

Monongah, W. Va., Dec. 9.—But 53 bodies had been recovered from mines Nos. 6 and 8 of the Fairmont Coal company when darkness closed over the little town of Monongah Sunday night.

Fifty-six hours had elapsed since the awful explosion and a majority of the bodies brought to the surface were in a terrible condition, necessitating almost immediate burial.

It is now believed that the number of dead will not be over 400. A thorough investigation was made by the company Sunday and it was discovered that many miners believed to have been entombed escaped because they had not gone to work Friday after Thursday's holiday.

Shortly after three o'clock Sunday afternoon fire broke out again in mine No. 8 and the rescuers were at once ordered to the surface. Thousands of sight-seers from the surrounding towns had gathered about the openings. Through megaphones the crowds were notified of the fire and the danger of another explosion, but they refused to leave and it was with great difficulty that the special police, assisted by many miners, forced these people to seek places of safety.

Efforts were then directed toward extinguishing the fire and it is thought it will be subdued soon, when the work of rescue will again be taken up. It was said by members of the rescuing party that over 100 bodies have been located in both mines and that they will be brought to the surface as soon as the fire has been extinguished. It is not believed the fire will reach any of these bodies.

Clarence Hall, of Washington, a government mine expert, arrived at Monongah Sunday. With Chief Mine Inspector J. W. Paul, of West Virginia, Mr. Hall spent the entire day at the mines. He will remain here until he can make a thorough investigation of the disaster, when he will return to Washington and report to the government.

GOTHAM POPULACE MOVING OUT INTO THE SUBURBS

NEW YORK.—New York's population supremacy is moving fast into the suburbs. Manhattan builders are providing new homes for 50,000 persons this year, although their output in recent years has been more than twice that volume.

Renting agents in middle-class districts say that there is a tremendous movement of flat dwellers away from Manhattan. A large part of the families are moving to new houses in Brooklyn, Queens and New Jersey, on the lines of the underliver tunnels which are to be opened this year. Brooklyn is getting by far the largest share because transit facilities there now are fairly good.

In all the new rapid transit suburbs flat builders have begun work on 3,000 houses during the first three-quarters of the year. They will contain homes for over 30,000 families. Manhattan builders have started during the same period less than 200 houses. They will house less than 10,000 families. It is estimated that the Manhattan flats begun during the first nine months of the year will not house more than 25,000 persons.

But the reduced construction more than supplies the population needs of Manhattan. There are more vacant flats in old centers than have been seen in nearly a decade. Flat owners in many parts of Harlem, on Washington Heights and in the Bronx are offering free rents to attract tenants. At the same time the increased demand in Brooklyn, in spite of its huge current construction of flats, is offering a basis for higher rentals. Few families who move into Brooklyn flats can get so much as a month's rent free, even when they pay a higher rental than has prevailed in the same neighborhood.

ROOSEVELT REFUSES URN CONTAINING CAT'S ASHES

PUBLIC Administrator William M. Hoos has disposed of the entire legacy left by the late Mrs. Lulu B. Glover, excepting the ashes of a cremated kitten. He has failed to get rid of this interesting relic. President Roosevelt, to whom Mrs. Glover, who committed suicide in her apartments on Lexington avenue last December, left her estate, has firmly refused to add the funeral urn which contains the ashes to the feline pot to his stock of curiosities.

Although it is not within the province of the public administrator to deal with the estates of those who have made wills, Mr. Hoos, at the request of the president, took charge of the property left by Mrs. Glover. He said that he had found the estate was valued at more than $4,000, and that President Roosevelt had notified him that he would give the money to a charitable institution.

But the urn, which contains the ashes of one of the many cats of which Mrs. Glover was fond, is too much like a white elephant to appeal to the president. He notified Mr. Hoos that he expected him as executor of the estate of Mrs. Glover to find a resting place for the ashes of the kitten. Mr. Hoos has offered the relic to several physicians. He has found that there is no general demand for the ashes of kittens, so he has taken charge of the urn himself and is using it as a paper weight.

According to law the cremated kitten is the property of President Roosevelt and he may, at any time, he chooses claim the residuary ashes. This, Mr. Hoos is sure, the president has no intention of doing. Mr. Hoos says he will keep the ashes if he is unable to persuade anybody to accept them.

Mr. Hoos' efforts to discover relatives of Mrs. Glover have extended over a period of several months, but have been fruitless. At this time there is little more known about the woman than was known when she was found in her apartment after she had tried to kill herself. She died in the Harlem hospital, leaving a will which gave her estate to President Roosevelt, many photographs of whom were among her belongings.

INTERESTING AUDIENCES IN THE DIVORCE COURTS to the audience, which has been typical.

There was the fat and blonde lady, drinking in every word of the testimony, and nudging the plump little woman who always accompanies her to such feasts. There was the smiling clerk, getting as near to people in high life as he ever can, and the man of 40 and a family, who ought to be at home. Then, too, were the women of all sorts and kinds, who either had just received their divorces or were waiting for them and wished to see and hear how another woman came through the ordeal.

And the students of sociology—whom most of them couldn't spell, let alone define—lingered with bated breath and parted lips on every word they shouldn't hear. The supreme court these days presents a scene which rivals every problem that ever flouted the strained relations across the footlights. Always a picturesque scene, always different, but always the same old picture.

Austrian has no children, but she says she has seen enough of the misery of others to help those who have babies under adverse conditions.

Charles E. George, founder and vice president of the association, says that there is an alarming increase in race suicide statistics. According to his figures, marriage in this country shows the appallingly small birth rate of about 26 per cent.

The initiation fee in the society is five dollars, with one dollar per month dues for the first year. This amount increases with time, but is never expected to go beyond three dollars. Then there is an annual assessment of two dollars.

Mr. George says his field of work is a promising one, as he has figured out that there are between 12,000,000 and 15,000,000 married couples in the country.

CHAPTER XXVII.

"I will bump you to hear it, Georgiana, and I'm awfully sorry for you, but I can't help it," said Daisy, as one afternoon in October the two girls strolled about the campus. "I've got to tell you. You are laboring under the delusion that Klara is in love with you—we can't of course, understand how he can help being, when he had the chance of watching us for four weeks without our knowing it. But," she added in the tone of an oracle, "he is not! Better you should know it now while none of your feelings except your pride are mixed up and before you hurt poor Oatshead to the point of driving him into my arms."

"How can you possibly know anything of Dr. Klara's feelings, Daisy?" Georgiana asked. "He is not a man to flout them before the public. And I don't suppose he has taken you into his confidence."

"Oh, but he has!" Georgiana turned and looked at her quickly. "What do you mean, Daisy?" "He not a man to flout his feelings! Gracious, he can't repress himself! He just has to let out to every passerby!" "And has he confided to you that he is not in love with me?" Georgiana smilingly inquired.

"He made me hear the whole story of Klara's—her turning out to be an heiress and the daughter of one of the oldest and best families in the country. Well, Georgiana, no man looks as he looked while speaking of that girl unless he has gone the way of all flesh and become mad with love. You would have seen it for yourself, but for your prepossession that he loved you. What a chance I missed myself, or if I'd dreamed that Pete was him—I mean he—I might have had a try at him myself, for I do like the creature rather. It isn't his fault that all the girls get silly about him. Yes," she said thoughtfully, "if I'd ever dreamed of his being himself I certainly would have given my attention to his case, for I know the man is either fond of me—you may not have noticed it—and my own private opinion is that we were made for each other. No hope for any of us now, though, not even for you, Georgiana. He's shrewd! The long, lost heiress has him. Whether he has her I don't know. I'd love to see him refused. I'd like to have a chance to refuse him myself. Though in such a contingency, if he continued to want me, I'd think about it. As for you, Georgiana, you'll have to content yourself with Oatshead."

Georgiana laughed. "Your gratifying surmise, my dear, are all wrong. How could a man like Dr. Klara care for a mere country girl like Klara? A sort of servant to the farmer's family? She was a little less illiterate than the rest, but a simple, uneducated country girl nevertheless. Why, I never saw Dr. Klara speak to her."

"He spoke to her whether we saw him or not." "He is too clever a man and too faithful to become enamored of an unsophisticated country girl," Georgiana repeated confidently. "The idea is absurd."

"He loves, adores, worships her!" Daisy affirmed. "He's mad about her. What I ask, is more alluring to a world weary cynic than rural simplicity?" "Rural simplicity," reasoned Georgiana, "is very well in its way. I think I don't underestimate its value and its charm. But a highly complex mental and spiritual organism like that of Dr. Klara could not be at one with a simple organism like that of the girl Klara. It stands to reason."

"She was duplex or complex enough to 'and her faith' Daisy vulgarly declared. "And to think, Georgiana, how you missed your chance when you had him all to yourself for a whole month—for, of course, I wasn't in the way." "No doubt Dr. Klara found my true self more quickly because of my unconsciousness of his presence than if we had come together in the ordinary way and been hampered by conventional forms and reserves."

"And maybe that's why he fell in love with Klara instead of you." "I don't follow your reasoning!" "Clear as mud!" He found you too superior. Profound rural simplicity, I ask you," she demanded, with a theatrical yawn of her hand, "why he is now, at the very beginning of the term, away from college in New York or Newport or some place? Echo answers, 'He's gone to see his girl!'" "Here comes your venerable young father!"

President Ellery, white-haired and wrinkled, but vigorous, came toward them in the path, a cane in one hand, an open letter in the other. "I have a letter from Dr. Klara," he announced, waving it before them. "Had news! He's resigned. But we shall not accept his resignation. We'll give him a year and get his promise to return next fall—with his bride. He's about to be married and intends to spend a year in traveling with his wife in Europe and Asia."

"The unfortunate lady's name?" inquired Daisy, for Georgiana could not speak. They waited breathless while President Ellery slowly took out his eyeglasses, adjusted them and examined the letter. "Miss Klara Volcott!" "Sting again!" cried Daisy, tottering.

The two girls walked on, while President Ellery proceeded in the opposite direction. "Please, Georgiana, don't let it rattle you," Daisy coaxed her, slipping her arm through her cousin's. "As I said in the beginning of my remarks to you this afternoon, none of your feelings is as yet engaged except your pride. Tell me," she demanded, with an air of coaxing, "can I read men? Am I observant? Am I cute and clever? Are my perceptions keen? My parting advice to you is, be kind to Oatshead before it is yet too late and he seeps in his heart, 'I have no pleasure in her.'"

Georgiana withdrew her arm from Daisy's. "I was mistaken in Dr. Klara," she said, with dignity. "No it would seem." "He is, after all, commonplace. He was unworthy of the high friendship I gave him."

"If you want that, you must climb! He wasn't lucky enough to do it," said Georgiana, "to whom the low plane of the average marriage would be impossible, one whom the universe would call only to the highest union. But he was quite incapable of meeting me. A country girl's pink and white pretenses"—She shrugged her shoulders, leaving her remark unfinished. "It only goes to show," said Daisy, "that there isn't the least use sportling up for a mere man, nor yet in making an effort. I don't really believe Klara tried for Pete. After this I'm going to live up to my favorite motto, 'Let Things Slide.' You come out better in the end."

RIDING THE SOUTH SEA SURF.

Author's Description Makes One Long to Participate.

"I shall never forget the first big wave I caught out there in the deep water. I saw it coming, turned my back on it and paddled for dear life. Faster and faster my board went, until it seemed my arms would drop off. What was happening behind me I could not tell. One cannot look behind and paddle the windmill stroke. I heard the creak of the wave hissing and churning, and then my board was lifted and flung forward. I scarcely knew what happened the first half minute. Though I kept my eyes open, I could not see anything, for I was buried in the rushing white of the crest. But I did not mind. I was chiefly conscious of ecstatic bliss at having caught the wave. At the end of the half minute, however, I began to see things and to breathe. I saw that three feet of the nose of my board was clear out of water and riding on the air. I shifted my weight forward and made the nose come down. Then I lay, quite at rest in the midst of the wild movement, and watched the shore and the bathos on the beach grow distinct. I didn't cover quite a quarter of a mile on that wave, because, to prevent the board from diving, I shifted my weight back, but shifted it too far, and fell down the rear slope of the wave."—Jack London in the Woman's Home Companion.

ROMANCE ENDS IN HAPPINESS.

Childhood Sweethearts Meet at New Orleans and Are Married.

A romance which began in their native land when both were children, and long before they dreamed of coming to America to seek their fortunes, culminated in the wedding of Antonio Hervatin and Joana Rumin of Pafin, Austria, says the New Orleans Picayune. They came over on the Bona Hohenberg. Antonio is a farmer, and he came to look for land which he could cultivate and later build a home upon. Joana came to New Orleans expecting to obtain employment as a servant; but when the time came for them to part at the ship's side it was more than Antonio could stand and harder than Joana had dreamed, and then it was that love asserted its rule, and they decided to cast their fortunes together. Stephen Jones, assistant secretary at the state immigration bureau, went with them to the St. Louis cathedral, where they were made man and wife by Mons. Laval. Radiant as children in their new-found happiness, bride and groom left for Laurel Hill, in West Feliciana, where they were taken by Miss Stuart to work on the sugar estate of Mr. Henry Stewart.

Proof That Oysters Have Brains.

William R. Travers, the famous stammering New York wit, once met at dinner a pompous Englishman who was "doing" the States. He had letters aplenty attesting his importance—letters from Gladstone, Dilke, Salisbury and Churchill. He had talked everybody tired before the dinner began, and Travers saw visions of a bad meal when he discovered the Englishman to be his neighbor at table. There was never a stop to the fellow's tongue. When the oysters were brought on he began: "Now, it is a question whether or not the oyster has brains; scientists dispute the idea." "Did they certainly have some," retorted Travers. "Your proof, sir," challenged the Briton, eager for argument. "Wah-ah-why, sir, the oyster knows h-h-h-how to shut up."

Long-Winded Preachers.

The seventeenth-century puritan preachers talked for two hours or more, not "by the clock," but by the hour-glass. At least one of them turned the glass to humorous account. He found himself no further than the middle of the sermon when the sands had run out. "Drunkness" was his subject, and, reversing the horologe, "Let's have another glass," said he. Mr. Roger L'Estrange tells of a parish clerk who sat patiently until the preacher was three-quarters through his second glass, and the majority of his hearers had quietly left the church. Rising at a convenient pause, he asked the minister to close the church door when he had done, "and push the key under it, as he and the few that remained were about to retire."

Eyelashes and Eyebrows.

There is much beauty in long, silky, curved eyelashes. Men are proud of "beetling brows" fringed with store bristles. They fondly believe that such features indicate force of character backed up by immense brain energy. In Circassia, Persia and parts of India one of a mother's earliest cares is to promote the growth of her children's eyelashes by tipping and removing the fine, downy eyelids with a pair of scissors when the youngsters are asleep. By repeating this every month or six weeks the lashes become long, close, finely curved and glossy. This practice is said to be very useful in treating inflammation of the eye, or granulated lids. Shaving will make the eyebrows thick and heavy.

No Wonder.

They were talking about the children in the building and how they played in the halls and what a nuisance they were. "My boy isn't like that," remarked the flat dweller in the front apartment. "He never makes any trouble. He never plays in the halls." Presently her boy came in. He was 16 only, but he was six feet and one inch tall.—N. Y. Press.

SCOUTING FOR MATERIAL.

Football Coaches in Annual Quest. Bartlett a Real Find.

With their usual foresight, the coaches of the various large football teams of the country are looking about over the vast field of preparatory school football players with an eye out for proper men who will be available for freshman teams next fall and work up to the varsity squad in the following year. There is not the rush and excited bidding between the coaches for a desirable player as there was in the good old days when a lad fresh from prep school could enter college and step directly into the varsity lineup, but beneath the surface the coaches are not missing any chances to gain a good man for their teams.

Already one young man of strength has been unearthed, and, though he is not yet through school, it is safe to say that he will not be lost sight of even if he is not eligible to enter college for a year or more. He is Arthur H. Bartlett of West Newton, Mass., and at present is attending Worcester (Mass.) academy, where he has broken every strength record, although he is but eighteen years old and is only a junior. Professor Donald H. McMillan of the academy believes that before Bartlett reaches his majority he will easily have reached the record of being the strongest of men at the college of the country.

Bartlett's total strength, based upon the Sargent system of points, is 1,238 points. He lifts with his back 303 points and with his legs 1,200 points. The record for the academy was held by Foster V. Young of Aylenford, N. H., and was 1,050 points. Coach Larkin of the football team was the first to realize Bartlett's strength and immediately got him out for the football team. He made good at left tackle and played a magnificent game throughout 1906.

Bartlett stands 5 feet 11½ inches high, and Professor McMillan thinks he will grow to at least 6 feet 3 before he reaches maturity. His breadth of shoulders is 13½ inches; depth of chest, Plant Like a Camel.

The nearest thing to a camel among plants is a curious specimen of the cucumber family which bears the name of the Thurberia scabra. This plant, like the camel, is a native of the desert and it has to go without water longer than the animal. As the rainy season in the desert comes only once a year, nature provides the plant with a reservoir to store up enough moisture to last it between times. The organ in which the water is stored is located at the base of the stem. It is covered with a sort of mackintosh envelope, through which the water can neither escape nor evaporate. This water holder rests on the sand throughout the entire period of drought, but when the rain comes it springs into activity.

Negroes' Teeth.

The whiteness and beauty of the teeth of the African negroes are generally ascribed to the food which they eat and to favorable climatic conditions, but those ignorant natives take especial care of the teeth and are familiar with many remedies for the treatment of dental diseases.—Munchener. Napoleonic Foresight.

Napoleon was crossing the Alps. "Fine business. Some day some one will write this up, and then I will be known as Napoleon the Great." Chuckling at his foresight, he lighted a Pittsburg stogie and continued far-ing.

STERLING SILVER MANUFACTURERS claim that they are producing more goods in one year at the present time than formerly in a period of two years.

WHY?

Because the consumer has awakened to the fact that for a gift the practical, durable piece is much more pleasing than the article which lasts but a short time.

WHY NOT BUY A PIECE THAT CAN BE LEFT AS AN HEIRLOOM?

Are you not fortunate to possess that piece of silver that your grand mother used to own? With what pride you place it on your table and show it to your friends. Do you realize that every one will prize a piece of silver and some day this same article will be shown with pride and spoken of as a piece that was made years ago?
